A Checklist for Property Research in Cleveland & Cuyahoga County

Where to Start?

The resources outlined in this guide can be used to conduct simple research, such as looking up an address in an old city directory, or more complex research, such as tracing the chain of ownership of a property, finding old photographs for a restoration project, locating previous owners, etc.

Property researchers must first give some thought to what they want to know about their subject property. Are you looking for something very specific, such as the building permit for a house, or do you want to know “everything?” The next thing to consider is how much time you are willing to invest in your research. Often, people start with a simple question that leads over time to a comprehensive research project with many rewarding discoveries.

If you are new to historical property research and would like expert guidance, please refer to the selection of books listed at the end of this guide.

How is this Guide Organized?

Resources in the Cleveland Public Library, Main Library, are listed first. They are organized by building (Louis Stokes Wing and Main Library Building), starting with the History and Geography Department. Many of the resources in this guide require assistance from a knowledgeable staff person. You are encouraged to ask questions of the staff in the various agencies listed.

Throughout the course of your research, you will find it very helpful to keep a written log of every piece of information you find and where you find it. It is also helpful to note the date and the source on the back of every photocopied record and to paperclip related papers together.

Information about Cleveland Street Names and Address Numbers

In 1906, most street names and all street address numbers in the city of Cleveland were changed to conform to a new citywide plan. During the latter half of the 19th century, many villages and townships were annexed to the city of Cleveland. At the time of annexation, each of these places—such as Glenville and Ohio City—had its own system of street names and numbers. When these places became a part of Cleveland, the multiple systems in use made navigation in the growing city difficult. It was not uncommon to have multiple streets with the same name. In 1905, Cleveland City Council approved a standardized plan for all existing street names and numbers.

To convert a particular address to its post-1906 equivalent, use the book Old and New Street Numbers, available in the History & Geography Department and also online: go to www.cpl.org, select RESEARCH, then select CPL Digital Gallery It is important to keep in mind that some street name and address changes did occur prior to the adoption of the 1905 plan. These changes are harder to track but can be uncovered with diligent research in sources such as the proceedings of Cleveland City Council.

Note also that many buildings, especially commercial buildings, have more than one address number. The address on a building may not be the address under which the original construction permit was applied for. It sometimes helps to check a Sanborn Fire Insurance Map for the entire range of a building's addresses, including the side street addresses of corner buildings.

▪ CLEVELAND CITY DIRECTORIES

The city directory is an alphabetic listing of residents, businesses, public buildings, schools, societies, etc. Entries include name, occupation, and other information. Wives' names first appeared in the Cleveland city directory in 1929. Also starting with the 1929 directory, properties are listed by address at the end of each volume. Business listings vary, but sometimes include incorporation date, officers, etc. Starting with the 1929 directory, properties are listed by address at the end of each volume, enabling the researcher to quickly determine the adult occupant(s) of a property. Check each volume to determine geographic coverage. No directory for Cleveland proper was published in the following years: 1838-45, 1847-48, 1851-52, 1853-55, 1858-59, 1862-63, 1933, 1945-46, 1948-50, 1952, 1962, 1967, 1971, 1973, and 1975-76.

COMPLETE SET OWNED BY CPL

History & Geography Department owns a complete set of Cleveland City Directories on microfilm. The department also has an extensive, but incomplete, set of paper copy directories available for patron use.

YEARS NOT PUBLISHED

No directory was published for Cleveland proper in the following years: 1838-45, 1847-48, 1851-52, 1853-55, 1858-59, 1862-63, 1933, 1945, 1946, 1948, 1949, 1950, 1952, 1962, 1967, 1971, 1973, 1975, and 1976.

PHOTOCOPIES

Patrons are permitted to make photocopies and scans only from the microfilm copy of the directories.

DIGITIZED DIRECTORIES

The 1881-82, 1889-90, 1906-07, 1911, 1917, 1921, 1927, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1936, 1938, 1940, 1942, 1943, and 1955 Cleveland city directories are available in Library's Digital Gallery, available online; go to www.cpl.org, select RESEARCH, then select CPL Digital Gallery. Additional years are being added. The subscription databases Ancestry.com and Fold3.com have a number of Cleveland city directories available online; patrons need a personal subscription to access both databases (Fold3 is also available to Cuyahoga County Public Library card holders). The Ancestry Library Edition database, provided free by the Library, does not contain these directories. A Google search will turn up some individual efforts at digitization.

▪ DIRECTORIES FOR SUBURBS OF CLEVELAND

WHAT WAS PUBLISHED

Before 1925, some suburbs adjacent to Cleveland were included in the Cleveland City Directory. Check each volume to determine coverage. Starting with the 1925 directory, the title page includes a list of suburbs covered in each volume. Suburbs included in the 1925 directory include: East Cleveland, Cleveland Heights, Shaker Heights, Bedford, Garfield Heights, Newburgh Heights, Bratenahl, Euclid Village, Lakewood and Rocky River. Linndale was included starting in 1927. University Heights was included starting in 1940. Starting with the 1951 directory, only the following suburbs are listed on the title page: Bratenahl, Brooklyn, Garfield Heights, Linndale and Newburgh Heights. Starting in the 1920s, separate directories began to be published for the larger suburbs of Cleveland. Starting in 1964, all of these separately published directories were merged into either the "Cleveland East Suburban" or "Cleveland West Suburban" editions.

- CLEVELAND TELEPHONE DIRECTORIES (1880 TO PRESENT)

The History & Geography Department maintains a comprehensive collection of Cleveland-area telephone directories, including all available residential (later known as White Pages) and business (later known as Yellow Pages) directories.

- CLEVELAND-AREA CRISS-CROSS DIRECTORIES (1923, 1926, 1937, 1960 TO PRESENT)
 Criss-cross directories are directories, arranged by address, of residences and businesses in the Cleveland area. These directories generally include the name and phone number of the occupant, provided the occupant had a listed telephone number. You must know the exact or approximate address of a property to effectively use the criss-cross directories. The History & Geography Department owns criss-cross directories for 1923, 1926, 1937 and 1960 through last year. The Business, Economics & Labor Department (Louis Stokes Wing, 2nd Floor) houses the current year's criss-cross directory. Please note that Cleveland City Directories (and most suburban directories) featured criss-cross listings by address at the end of each volume beginning in 1929.
- CLEVELAND BLUE BOOK (1885 TO THE PRESENT)
 This social register of the Greater Cleveland area contains the names and addresses of locally prominent families. Listing includes names of spouses and children as well degrees earned, club memberships held. (Ref. F 499 .C6 A182). History & Geography Department maintains paper and microfilm copies. Years published: 1885/86 (Cleveland Social Directory), 1888, 1891, 1895, 1900, 1904, 1907, 1911, 1915, 1922, 1924, 1929, 1931, 1935, 1942, 1945, 1948, 1951, 1954, 1956, 1958, 1960, 1962, to the present (issued in 2-year volumes beginning with 1964/1965).
- DIRECTORIES FOR OHIO CITIES OUTSIDE THE CLEVELAND AREA
 The History & Geography Department owns an extensive collection of city directories for other Ohio cities on microfilm. Please refer to the separately published list available on the Genealogy research page of the Library's website, found under Research/Popular Topics/History & Geography.
- DIRECTORIES FOR U.S. CITIES OUTSIDE OHIO
 The History & Geography Department owns a comprehensive microfilm collection of all city directories published in the United States before 1860. A detailed inventory of these directories can be found in the index volume titled "City Directories of the United States" (call number Ref. E 154.5 .C57x). In addition to owning every directory published before 1860, the History & Geography Department also owns directories for major U.S. cities for the period 1861-1883. Please refer to the separately published list available on the Genealogy research page of the Library's website, found under Research/Popular Topics/History & Geography.
- Index to Cleveland and Ohio Regional History & Biography (1900s-1975). An index to a variety of sources (books, magazines, etc.) on all aspects of Cleveland and Ohio history and biography. (On microfiche.)
- Newspaper Clipping Files: Cleveland and Ohio (1920s-1975). Articles on all aspects of Cleveland and Ohio history, including files on well-known houses and buildings. (On microfiche.)

Old & New Street Numbers book (Ref F499.C675 O42 1905x). In 1905/1906, most street names and all street address numbers were changed according to a standardized street naming and numbering plan. Use this book if: 1.) You have a pre-1906 address of a house/building and want to know what it was changed to in 1906, or 2.) You need to determine the pre-1906 address of a house/building.

Online Access: This resource is available online. Go to www.cpl.org, select RESEARCH, then select CPL Digital Gallery

- Dedicated and accepted Cleveland streets card file (Ref F499 .C675 D33 2005). A “dedicated street” is a public thoroughfare or right of way dedicated or deeded to the city. Most roads were accepted by Cleveland City Council. Some older roads were accepted by the then-existing towns and villages which were later annexed to the city of Cleveland, and whose existing roads became the responsibility of Cleveland. Each date of acceptance should theoretically correspond to an issue of the official proceedings of the Cleveland City Council (The City Record) in which the official action of accepting each street was recorded.
- Cuyahoga County Auditor's tax duplicates, 1819-1869. (F497.C9 C88 1819a) Documents land ownership in Cuyahoga County. No records for 1820-1822. Printed guide to holdings is in History Dept. (F497.C9 T39 2002).
- Cleveland Telephone Directories (1880 to date). Collection includes all available residential (White Pages) and business (Yellow Pages) directories.

- Building Permits. Building permits provide pertinent information dealing with the building or alteration of Cleveland structures, after 1888, including the dimensions of the structure, location, estimated cost of construction, the architect, the builder, the owner and the purpose of the building or alteration. The “Index of Building Permits” is a set of red books prepared in the 1930s by Works Progress Administration (WPA) staff. This index gives the permit numbers, location and a very brief description of every permit issued before the 1930s. The index is arranged alphabetically by street name.
- Demolition Permits. Demolition permits dating to the late 1800s for buildings demolished in Cleveland.

- Public Utilities Records. Utilities installation information for houses in Cuyahoga County from the mid-nineteenth century to the present day. Besides recording information such as the number of baths and water closets found in every house, some individual files disclose the number of rooms listed in different structures at the time of installation, metering, etc.

CUYAHOGA COUNTY FISCAL OFFICER
CUYAHOGA COUNTY ADMINISTRATION BUILDING
1219 ONTARIO AVENUE, CLEVELAND, OHIO 44113

(216) 443-7010

County records enable the researcher to determine ownership, terms of sale and other details about a property. The three basic steps involved in county records research are as follows:

- 1.) Determine address and permanent parcel number to be searched.
- 2.) Make a complete list of the names of previous owners and the dates of property transfer using the map record books in the County Fiscal Officer's Office Map Room (Room 310). Records date to the early 1800s. The earliest books are available in the Map Room on microfiche only. The original volumes are available at the Cuyahoga County Archives.
- 3.) Take the information gathered in step #2 to the County Fiscal Officer's Office (Room 216) to view the actual property deeds that were signed and filed each time the subject property changed ownership. Property deeds will give you the allotment transfer price, the fully signed terms agreed upon by the old (grantor) and new (grantee) owner(s), the dimensions of the property sold and any unusual legal stipulations considered part of the property transfer. The deed records make no reference to buildings on the property sites involved. However, the transfer price frequently hints as to the value of a structure located on a particular piece of property at a given period in time.

Note: The County's current records, as well as many of its older holdings, are gradually being made available on the Internet. See the ELECTRONIC RESOURCES section at the end of this brochure for more information.

SHAKER BUILDING CARD DATABASE

Database includes scanned images of over ten thousand building cards related to homes and other buildings in Shaker Heights, Ohio. Available online at www.shakerbuildings.com.

PERMANENT PARCEL NUMBERS

The permanent parcel number (PPN) is a number assigned to each piece of property in the county. It is composed of three parts: a map book (tax district) number, a map book page (section) number and an assessor's parcel number. For example: 001-02-03 would be in tax district 1, section 2, property number 3. These numbers correspond to the books in Map Room of the Cuyahoga County Fiscal Office and do not change.

You may obtain the permanent parcel number from several sources, including a deed, tax bill or reappraisal notice. The staff in the Cuyahoga County Fiscal Officer's Map Room (Room 310) can help you find the number. If the property in question is a residence, you may also look up the number by name of property owner in the County Fiscal Officer's website:

CUYAHOGA COUNTY ARCHIVES
2905 FRANKLIN AVENUE, CLEVELAND, OHIO 44113

(216) 443-7250

- Fiscal Officer's Maps, ca. 1860-1950. The Archives owns the original copies of the County Fiscal Officer's land ownership maps (also available on microfiche at the County Fiscal Officer's Office). Fiscal Officer's Maps document land ownership and dates of title transfer. See Cuyahoga County Fiscal Officer's Section for more information.
- County Property Cards. Two surveys of all tax-assessed properties in Cuyahoga County were done by the Cuyahoga County Fiscal Officer's Office in the 1930s and the 1960s. The more recent survey cards include a small photograph of the subject property. Both surveys provide information on building dimensions and layout, lighting, plumbing, property owner, rental income, roofing, tiling, estimate construction date and the assessed value of the property. An address and permanent parcel number (see section on Cuyahoga County Fiscal Officer's office) are needed to request these cards.

- Cuyahoga County Fiscal Officer's Tax Records (tax duplicates) & Cuyahoga County Treasurer's Tax Records, 1820-1870 (incomplete), 1870 and after. Tax duplicates are tax records issued one or twice a year depending on the year in question. These bound volumes offer information concerning individual property ownership and property value. Divisions in tax books were made according to owner, allotment, allotment number, ward or township depending on the year, county or township involved. The Treasurer's records also indicate the amount of real estate tax paid and the date of payment.
- Cleveland City Directories, 1837-1967. See description in Cleveland Public Library, History Dept. section.
- Hopkins Plat Maps (various dates). See description in Cleveland Public Library, Map Collection section.
- Biography Clipping File: Cleveland and Ohio (1920s-1975). Articles on prominent Clevelanders. This is the original paper file from the Cleveland Public Library, which has this resource on microfiche cards.
- County Building Commission Journals, including Cuyahoga County Court House, Soldiers and Sailors Monument and certain other county buildings and bridges.
