Mr. Venable introduced Attorney Peter N. Kirsanow of Benesch, Friedlander, Coplan & Aronoff LLP who gave a presentation on Cleveland Public Library’s current affirmative action policy in comparison to current US Constitutional law and discussed possible liability as a result of failure to follow current law for public agencies. To move the Library toward compliance, Mr. Kirsanow advised that the Library conduct a pre-disparity study that justifies the use of a race conscious program increasing opportunities for minorities and enlarging pools of minority participants on public contracts for Library construction projects. In addition, Mr. Kirsanow stated that bid and contracting documents relating to Library construction projects should remove references to race-conscious policies and substitute race-neutral policies, until a disparity study is completed.

Mr. Corrigan stated that taxpayers as well as minorities should have an opportunity to participate in the Library’s capital improvement projects especially in their respective neighborhoods and communities.
